

The Story of Edward Laurence Doheny, Sr.

by Margaret Leslie Davis Adapted from Dark Side of Fortune: Triumph and Scandal in the Life of Oil Tycoon Edward L. Doheny, Sr.

Oilman Edward L. Doheny, one of the leading industrial titans of the early twentieth century, played a singular role in the dawn of the age of petroleum. Drawn to the West in search of his fortune, he failed at prospecting before finding oil in a tar-befouled lot in Los Angeles in 1892 where he drilled the region's first commercial free-flowing well. Certain that the substance had commercial value, he astutely envisioned that steamships and locomotives would soon be powered by oil instead of coal.

Doheny had already made a significant fortune in the California oil fields by 1900 when he ventured into the wilds of Mexico. Deep in dense jungle and dangerous swampland, Doheny discovered potentially oil-rich parcels. He then raised huge sums from investors to fund construction of rail lines, roads, pipelines and pumping facilities needed to capture and transport the crude. When early wells failed to produce as expected, Doheny gambled everything he owned on the venture and at one low point desperately pawned his wife's jewels.

In 1916, Doheny struck a gusher of historic size when he delivered the mighty Cerro Azul, a record-setting well that would produce 270,000 barrels of oil each day. Over the next fourteen years it spouted an astounding 60 million barrels of crude.

As he expanded into Mexico, Doheny drilled some of the most famous gushers in the history of oil production. He built a vast business that made him one of the richest men in the world. By the 1920s, Doheny's oil empire was considered one of the greatest concentrations of private capital in the world.

But Doheny's fortunes would soon change. In Mexico, resentment against foreign oil barons grew and the government moved to seize their assets and nationalize the industry. In the United States, his accomplishments were overshadowed by the Teapot Dome scandal involving the alleged bribery of a cabinet official by wealthy oilmen including Doheny. The scandal resulted in drama-filled Congressional hearings and over ten years of high-profile civil and criminal trials.

Even though a jury found Doheny innocent of bribery and he was fully acquitted of all charges, his image was forever tarnished. Despite his pivotal role in the dawn of the American Century he wasn't granted the status attributed to other self-made tycoons such as John D. Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie, whose contributions to U.S. economic growth and industrial prominence were widely lauded.

Nevertheless, Doheny's foresight and drive, his great belief in petroleum as fuel for progress and his willingness to risk his personal fortune to find and market oil played a crucial part in the economic growth of the nation in the early twentieth century. Doheny firmly believed that hard work could create shared benefits and spoke with pride of his contribution to the industrial wealth of the nation.

As a 1926 wedding gift, Doheny gave his only son, Edward L. "Ned" Doheny Jr., nearly 13 acres of prime hillside property in Beverly Hills where the younger man built the stunning manor now known as Doheny Greystone Estate. The Tudor Revival mansion clad in limestone and grey slate is a revered architectural and cultural landmark as well as a testament to the scope of Doheny's achievement. Edward L. Doheny Sr.'s story - his individualism and drive coupled with the opportunity to disrupt an old technology and raise up a new one - comes to us now as a cautionary and truly American tale. Doheny helped give birth to the modern world as we know it but was denied the place he deserved in popular memory as one of the true giants of his age.

GOING HOME — On Thursday morning, a portrait of Edward Lawrence Doheny returned home to Greystone mansion after nearly 60 years in the office of his grandson, Patrick A. Doheny. After Patrick passed away, El Camino Building LLC. donated the portrait to the Friends of Greystone, with arrangements made by Kathleen Doheny McCoy and Peter McCoy. Above, left: the portrait hanging in Greystone decades ago. Above, right: Jerry Borja and Reggie Sully delivering the portrait back to Greystone Mansion. The return of the portrait is part of an ongoing effort to restore and renovate the home's library and fill it full of many of its old treasures.

At the Doheny Greystone Mansion's Maison de Luxe showhouse November 2015, Nina Campbell designed a luxurious bedroom suite suitable for a modern day Mr. Doheny Sr., patriarch of the legendary estate. Stately and sophisticated yet appropriate for modern day living, it was a stylish statement of elegance and aplomb. "We set out to create a comfortable, classic but contemporary bedroom for a modern day Mr. Doheny." Adding a touch of authenticity, a 1925 portrait of Edward L. Doheny Sr., which originally hung in the Living Room, was loaned by his great granddaughter for the room. "In a fabled house with many a haunted tale, he seems quite happy to be back in the house and approving of our room".

Doheny Greystone Estate Mansion 501 Gates

Sandor Laszloffy owner of Laszloffy Ornamental Iron Works in Los Angeles, CA crafted the decorative 501 gates at Greystone. Sandor Laszloffy did all of his work out of his backyard and at one point during the 1920's and 30's he was known as the leading ornamental iron works craftsman in Los Angeles.

Doheny Greystone Mansion and Gatehouse

For Greystone's architect, Mrs. And Mrs. E. L. Doheny, Jr selected Gordon B. Kaufmann of Los Angeles, one of California's most sought after residential architects. Gordon Kaufmann had designed Greystone Mansion in an English Tudor style rather than the Spanish Colonial Revival which seemed to have typified 1920s Southern California.

The mansion was the last major part of the estate to be built. The digging of its foundation started on February 15, 1927. Greystone's exterior reflects 19th century English Revival architecture with two-story towers faced with grey Indiana limestone, thick Welsh slate on the roof, five red brick chimneys, and leaded windows. The home included 55 rooms in 46,054 square feet of living space, with living rooms, bedrooms, kitchen, and an entertainment wing consisting of a theater, bowling alley, and billiard room. Greystone derived its name from the grayish tint of the limestone. Known as Ned, his wife Lucy, and their five children moved into the residence in September 1928. The entire estate is 18.3 acre and took three years to complete at a cost of over $3 million, an almost unimaginable sum in real estate at the time. The original cost to construct Greystone's entire estate was $3,146,578.12, the Mansion alone cost $1,238,378.74.

The gatehouse is located on the lower grounds on the southeast corner of the Estate. It was built in the same style as the mansion (stone walls and slate roof). The 1,800 square foot structure with seven rooms is attached to the Doheny gate, which was once the main entrance to the estate.

By mid-1928, the estate was virtually finished, except for the mansion where work was progressing rapidly.

May 28	Construction of the exterior stone walls was completed
June 11	Interior plasterwork was completed
June 19	Slate roof was completed
July 17	Hand-carved ornamental stonework was completed
August 23	Ornamental ironwork was completed
August 31	Interior millwork was completed
September 11	Interior marble and tile work was completed
September 12	Special interior decorative work by Chesebrough Studio of Pasadena was completed
September 13	Plumbing, heating and ventilation work was completed
September 24	Greystone Mansion was completed
End of September	The Doheny Family, Edward Lawrence Doheny, Jr. and Lucy Smith with their five children moved into their new home.

Formal Garden and Cypress Lane

The grounds at Greystone reflected the same sophisticated design, costly materials, and skilled workmanship as the mansion itself. In terms of different garden themes and recreation facilities, Emile Kuehl, principal designer hired by Paul Thieme for the Greystone Gardens Project, had followed Paul Thieme's, Landscape Architect instructions and given the Dohenys "everything". Paul G. Thieme, Landscape Architect, was one of Southern California's most gifted landscape architects in the 1920s who laid out the grounds and designed garden structures like the walls, terraces and pool house. In 1927, the grounds contained the largest sprinkler system in the world.

The hillside behind the mansion had been transformed into terraces and a series of Italian Renaissance-inspired "garden rooms" containing a formal rose garden, Cypress Lane, swimming pool with pavilion and tennis courts, all linked by paths winding through dense stands of drought-resistant trees. For these terraces, fountains and gardens, "no attempt" was made to use cheaper materials. The walks were all Vermont Slate. The stone for the walls was limestone shipped from Indiana. Ornamental lead pieces came from England. Sculptural stone details were all carved on the job. This combination of different garden themes was quite typical for Southern California Estates in the 1920s.

Swimming Pool and Swimming Pavilion

The Swimming Pavilion is a reinforced concrete structure adjoining the swimming pool of irregular shape. Total area approximately 1,120 square feet. Height, one story. A wood frame pergola adjoins the south side. Men's and women's dressing rooms are located in the west and east sections of the structure.

Dickie Dell's Playhouse also known as Children's Playhouse, Lucy's Cottage, and Guest House

In late 1927 or early 1928, the Dohenys had moved daughter Dickie Dell's playhouse from their Chester Place residence to Greystone. Installed on a hillside behind the mansion, this was not an ordinary playhouse. Boasting a steeply pitched roof and awning-shaded entrance porch, it looked much like the middle class bungalows that lined street after street in the Hollywood flats and the eastern reaches of Beverly Hills south of Santa Monica Boulevard.

"It was completely furnished," recalls George Maile, whose father became the Doheny Ranch superintendent in 1943. "It was very livable, except that all the furnishings and all the appliances including the baby grand piano were approximately two thirds scale. They were all child sized. It was not too apparent, walking into the house, because everything was scaled down, but when one tried to sit, you were a little closer to the floor."

Picnic Shelter

The Picnic Shelter is a small one story, wood frame structure, erected in 1928. Area is approximately 918 square feet. The building was used to prepare and serve occasional meals for parties. A small kitchen was equipped with a gas stove.

Tennis Court and Shelter

The Tennis Court Shelter is a small masonry walled, slate roof structure erected about 1928, on the west side of the tennis court. The area is approximately 18 by 20 ft. and the structure is used for a lounge adjoining the tennis court.

THEATER / SCREENING ROOM

DESCRIPTION: As part of its mission to restore and preserve the Doheny Greystone Mansion in Beverly Hills, the Friends of Greystone seek financial sponsorship to renovate the Estate's original movie theater. The inclusion of a private movie theater was far ahead of its time. The first talkies were being released when the forty seat theater made its debut from across the main entrance to the fifty-five room Mansion. Our goal is to restore the theater to the plush intimate movie palace it once was, with state-of-the-art sound and electronic equipment. Once all of the proposed elements are completed, the theater will be used to introduce visitors to the property, for cultural and educational purposes, as well as for rentals for private screenings. If funding is provided by a single source, the theater can be named after the donor. Arrangements for private screenings in the theater and other uses of Greystone and its 18-acre grounds would be made available to the donor.

DATE OF ORIGIN: 1927-1928
Dimensions: Entire room also known as a "tennis court shape theater"
Approximate Cost to Restore: $1,500,000.00

CURRENT STATE OF THEATER:
The American Film Institute (AFI) left Doheny Greystone Estate in 1982 and since then the theater and screening room have remained closed and unused. American Film Institute (AFI) rented Doheny Greystone Estate from the City of Beverly Hills from 1965 to 1982 and altered the original theater to fit their requirements, of which remnants still remain today (see photo above). In the last ten years the City of Beverly Hills has done mold abatement and ensured that the theater was safe to walk inside. The projection booth remains closed, no historic pictures of this space are known to exist at this time with exception of above circa 1960 photo that was given to the Friends of Greystone by the American Film Institute (AFI).

RESTORATION PROCESS INCLUDES:
Removal of existing theater seats placed by AFI and replace with appropriate seating.
Identify any repairs and/or replacement work needing to be done.
Identification of historic elements to be preserved.
Decorative wood ceiling to be cleaned and repaired due to sustained moisture damage.
Decorative wall sconces to be cleaned, rewired and replaced.
Electrical engineer to address heating, air conditioning, plumbing and life safety (alarms, sprinklers).
Investigation and testing of roofing, flashing and roof drainage.

THE MANSION'S DOOR KNOBS

Phase 1/2015 The Mansion has over one hundred doors. Most of the historic doorknobs have "gone missing" over the years. Some doors have no knob. Others have mismatched replacement hardware and rosettes. The Friends have counted and inventoried every door and doorknob in the Mansion. At least 160 knobs in three styles will be needed to put all doors in working order. Introduced to Greystone by Luxe Interior + Design Magazine, Baldwin Hardware has offered to donate similar style knobs, rosettes and associated hardware from their catalogue for the entire Mansion with a donated retail value of approximately $20,000.

Phase 2/2016 The Friends of Greystone are seeking a donor to sponsor the hardware installation by a qualified locksmith/restoration specialist. Installation may include the refurbishment or rebuilding of many of the original mortise lock boxes. Project cost with recognition is approximately $25,000-$30,000.

THE LIVING ROOM AND MINSTREL GALLERY

Phase 1/2015 Completed by Renaissance Design Studio, Alan & Kim Weiner have recreated and hand carved a pair of finials to replace two that have been missing from the Minstrel Gallery for many years. Using historic photos from 1928, as well as close-up photos from the 1965 movie "The Loved One", Renaissance has been able to replicate the original finials. In addition, Renaissance has carved and replaced other missing millwork and three sets of steps in the Minstrel Gallery to their original dimensions. Renaissance has generously donated a substantial portion of their time and costs toward this project with an estimated donation value of over $12,000.

Phase 2/2016 Jimenez Custom Painting, Inc. will generously be donating all faux finishing to match the Minstrel Gallery woodwork. The floor and steps in this area will also be refinished.

Phase 3/2016 This phase would correct alterations made to the Minstrel Gallery's interior doorways by the American Film Institute in the 1980's when they converted the space to a projection room. Silverlake Conservation would make a mold from an original remaining corbel and create and replace two which are missing. Project cost with recognition is unknown at this time.

THE LIBRARY / MUSEUM

Phase 1/2015 The Friends of Greystone Board of Directors are extremely grateful to McCoy Construction for their generous donation of time and expertise in preparing a complete proposal to restore this room to its original 1928 design. Millworks by Design has also donated substantial time to this planned restoration and transformation of the historic Library into a future museum. The museum will showcase numerous Doheny Family treasures donated by multiple generations of family members.

Phase 2/2016 This room was totally stripped of its woodwork and fireplace by Lucy Doheny Battson when she moved from Greystone in 1955. Since there is nothing original existing in the room, with the exception of the windows, doors and floor, the restoration will be extensive. It will include replication of the original vaulted, stamped ceiling and floor-to-ceiling wood paneling copied from archival 1928 photos. Approximate cost is $342,750.

Phase 3/2016 A special display is planned for artifacts generously gifted by Doheny family descendants. Most of this exquisite collection, including fine crystal, porcelain, linens, photos, books and personal effects, were once used at Greystone. Shelves, glass doors, hardware and lighting will be built into display cabinets where the library shelves were previously located. Approximate cost is $113,000.

BOYS NORTH WING BATHROOM

Phase 1/2015 Due to a generous anonymous donor, Silverlake Conservation, Amy Green, principal, has been hired by the Friends of Greystone to remove, conserve and reinstall a damaged section of original tiles in the bathroom shower.

Phase 2/2015 Silverlake Conservation will also repair and refurbish all of the tilework in the bathroom including meticulous cleaning of tile and grout, removal and patching of non-historic fixtures. Project cost with recognition is approximately $6,950.

Phase 3/2016 Re-chroming of all historic fixtures and replacement of any missing fixtures. Project cost is unknown at this time.

THE MOVIE THEATER / SCREENING ROOM

Phase 1/2015 In order to plan the upgrading and restoration of this historic space in the Mansion's Entertainment Wing, the City of Beverly Hills funded an Infrastructure Engineering Study completed by Chief Architect David Kaplan with KC Architects. The ultimate plan is to create a fully functional state-of-the-art screening room as a rental venue and intimate performance space.

Phase 2/2016 The electrical, décor, sound system, digital equipment and naming rights with extensive usage for a donor is available. Project cost with recognition is approximately $1,500,000.

THE BILLIARD ROOM AND BAR

Restoration involved the north wall which had extensive water damage. Through the generosity of Renaissance Design, the damaged panels have been reproduced in matching knotty pine. Jimenez Custom Painting is completing the faux finishing and preservation of all remaining woodwork. With the original billiard table donated back to its historic location by Onnalee Doheny, the room has been returned to the glamour of 1928.

GREYSTONE MANSION

CONCOURS d'ELEGANCE

Selected by the 2016 Concours d'Elegance Steering Committee, this year's car being featured in all promotional materials is a rare Pininfarina-bodied Alfa Romeo 6C2500.

This is the last Pininfarina-bodied Alfa Romeo 6C2500 Cabriolet ever built, and one of the last three chassis of all the long and storied 6C2500 models. The car is a short wheelbase drop-head with correct matching numbered engine as confirmed by noted Alfa authority Raoul San Giorgi.

It was delivered on December 9, 1951 to Kosta G.m.b.H in Hamburg Germany, and was purchased by a British airman stationed there after the war. He eventually brought it to the U.S., and it was left with a mechanic in Columbus, Ohio to sell because he couldn't take it back to England with him. It was purchased in 1962-63 by Bob Agle of Jeffersonville, Ohio. Mr. Agle was a classic car collector and an engineer who ran a farm, and the car was stored in the proverbial barn for many years, until it was purchased by Harold and Judy Johnson of Houston in 1998. Mr. Johnson restored the car and painted it white, and it remained in his possession until the current owner purchased it from him in October of 2009.

The car underwent a preliminary mechanical restoration to enable it to compete in the Mille Miglia in May 2010. It was then delivered to Luzzago Brothers of Brescia, Italy, who undertook a loving and painstaking multi-year body-off restoration of the entire car, including the complete powertrain and vintage craftsmen body work, returning it to its original Burgundy color.

Subsequently the car was returned to the U.S., and was completed by Scott Sargent and Mike Lemire of Vermont. Mr. Sargent completed minor mechanical details and Mr. Lemire installed a correct new interior, both after research and consultation with Mr. San Giorgi.

No effort has been spared in returning this great example of one of the finest postwar touring cars to its original condition. Additional details of the restoration process and extensive photos of the entire process are available upon request.

A group of kids from Beverly Hills Heart Helpers 4-H Club sold their own produce from the Greystone Mansion Demonstration Garden at the Beverly Hills Farmers' Market making this the first true locally grown Beverly Hills produce ever sold at the Farmers' Market. Under the direction of lead volunteer Barbara Linder, the Heart Helpers 4-H Club kids developed, planted, cultivated and maintained the Demonstration Garden at the Doheny Greystone Estate with the intention to sell the produce at the Farmers' Market. "They worked many hours over six months to ensure the produce was worthy of selling at the market," said Barbara Linder. After going through the process of agriculture inspections and licensing, the State of California Department of Food and Agriculture awarded the Demonstration Garden producers with a Certified Producer's Certificate, allowing sale of their produce at the Farmers' Market.

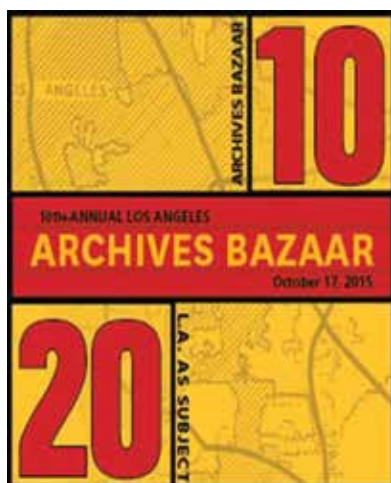

The produce from the Demonstration Garden that was sold by the 4-H Club kids included winter squash, popcorn on the cob, pomegranates, garden-grown herbal sachets, dried hot peppers, baked garden-grown apple chips, kumquat and mulberry preserves and syrups.

LAasSUBJECT October 17, 2015

The Friends of Greystone are proud to be a member of LA as Subject and celebrate the City of Los Angeles history with a booth where you can learn about the Doheny Greystone Estate's history in relation to the City of Los Angeles. This annual event is held at the USC Doheny Library, University of Southern California.

Hosted by the USC Libraries since 2000, LA as Subject currently sponsors a robust program aimed at preserving and sharing the history of the Los Angeles region, from its media partnership with KCETLink to its residency program that pairs young library professionals with community archives. It's annual Archives Bazaar was first organized in 2006 to connect researchers with the unique collections of LA as Subject members. The event, free to the public, has blossomed into LA's premier daylong celebration of its rich and diverse history.

This year, the bazaar celebrated a little history of its own, as its annual occurrence coincided with the 20th anniversary of LA as Subject, which the Getty Research Institute launched in 1995 to identify and catalogue lesser-known archives. Friends of Greystone Chair Kathi Rothner. Board members in attendance: Susan Rosen, Vicky Swartz, Marsha Tauber Salli.

Forty-six Beverly Hills High School (BHHS) 11th grade AP history class students were given a private tour of the historic Doheny Greystone Estate. Organized by Julian Saadeh, BHHS teen advisory and Vicky Swartz, Executive Board Member of the Friends of Greystone Board of Directors, this semi-annual event was once again enjoyed by everyone. Ms. Malia Frutschy and Mr. Dan Moraoica, the student's history teachers, attended this tour as they have done every semester over the past three years. Julian Gold, MD, the Mayor of the City of Beverly Hills, greeted all of the students and spoke about the City's history as well as the Friends of Greystone's ongoing efforts to raise funds to restore the Doheny Greystone Estate and to raise the public's awareness of this magnificent property. Steve Clark, Senior Park Ranger, shared his immense knowledge of the Doheny family, the Doheny Greystone Mansion, the significance of the Teapot Dome Scandal, and so much more. This tour was certainly a memorable event for everyone.

BEVERLY HILLS HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT ESSAYS

Dani Berris

Seeing Greystone Mansion in person is more meaningful than reading about it online. For example, the park rangers who work there, while patrolling the grounds of this landmark, were able to explain their experiences. This allowed me to receive a firsthand account of many events and stories having to do with the mansion. Since I was able to actually walk through the mansion and admire the architecture in person, I find my experience much more interesting than reading about the mansion. I learned about the history of the mansion and was able to see the actual evidence of the occurrences discussed. I was able to see the hidden doors where alcohol was kept during the prohibition and learned many things about the inhabitants of the mansion. Seeing Greystone Mansion in person exposed me to the magnificent architecture and allowed me to have a deeper understanding of the history of this landmark.

Yasmine Jebeli

The Greystone Mansion, given by oil tycoon Edward Laurence Doheny Sr. to his son as a wedding gift in 1926, does not only serve as an icon of splendor and beauty in Los Angeles, with its lush gardens and charming architecture. The mansion serves as both a symbol of Californian history and as the keeper of the secretive and rich, mysterious past of the Doheny Family. The opportunity to be taken on a tour of the charming estate was truly a breathtaking experience. Although some renovations have been done to the mansion, you can practically see the house breathe with life from the admirable amount of effort and labor gone into its preservation. The mansion offers a more intimate account of the history that lies within its walls and tells the story of its existence in a way that no book could ever compete with. We were able to delve into minor details of the family and the way life was lived on the mansion, things that would be undermined by historians as superfluous and unimportant, but truly added to the appeal of the residence.

Yu Jin Kim

My experience at the Greystone Mansion was one that was unforgettable and unlike any others. Situated on the hills, it provided a breathtaking view of the city. From the outside, it simply looked like a luxurious mansion, similar to others one may find in Beverly Hills. However, by taking the tour, I had the special opportunity to learn of its historical values that make it so different and unique. Its antique rooms and ornaments offered insight into the lifestyle of the twentieth century. One of my favorite rooms were the old bowling alleys and the billiard room, which showed how the people of this generation entertained themselves. Though the Greystone Mansion may seem specific to the history of Beverly Hills, it can be connected to our country's history as well. On the tour, I was able to hear all different kinds of anecdotes and see the smallest details that really pieced together every aspect of the mansion and made my learning experience of the location so enjoyable.

DESIGN SHOW HOUSE AT HISTORIC DOHENY GREYSTONE MANSION November 7-22, 2015

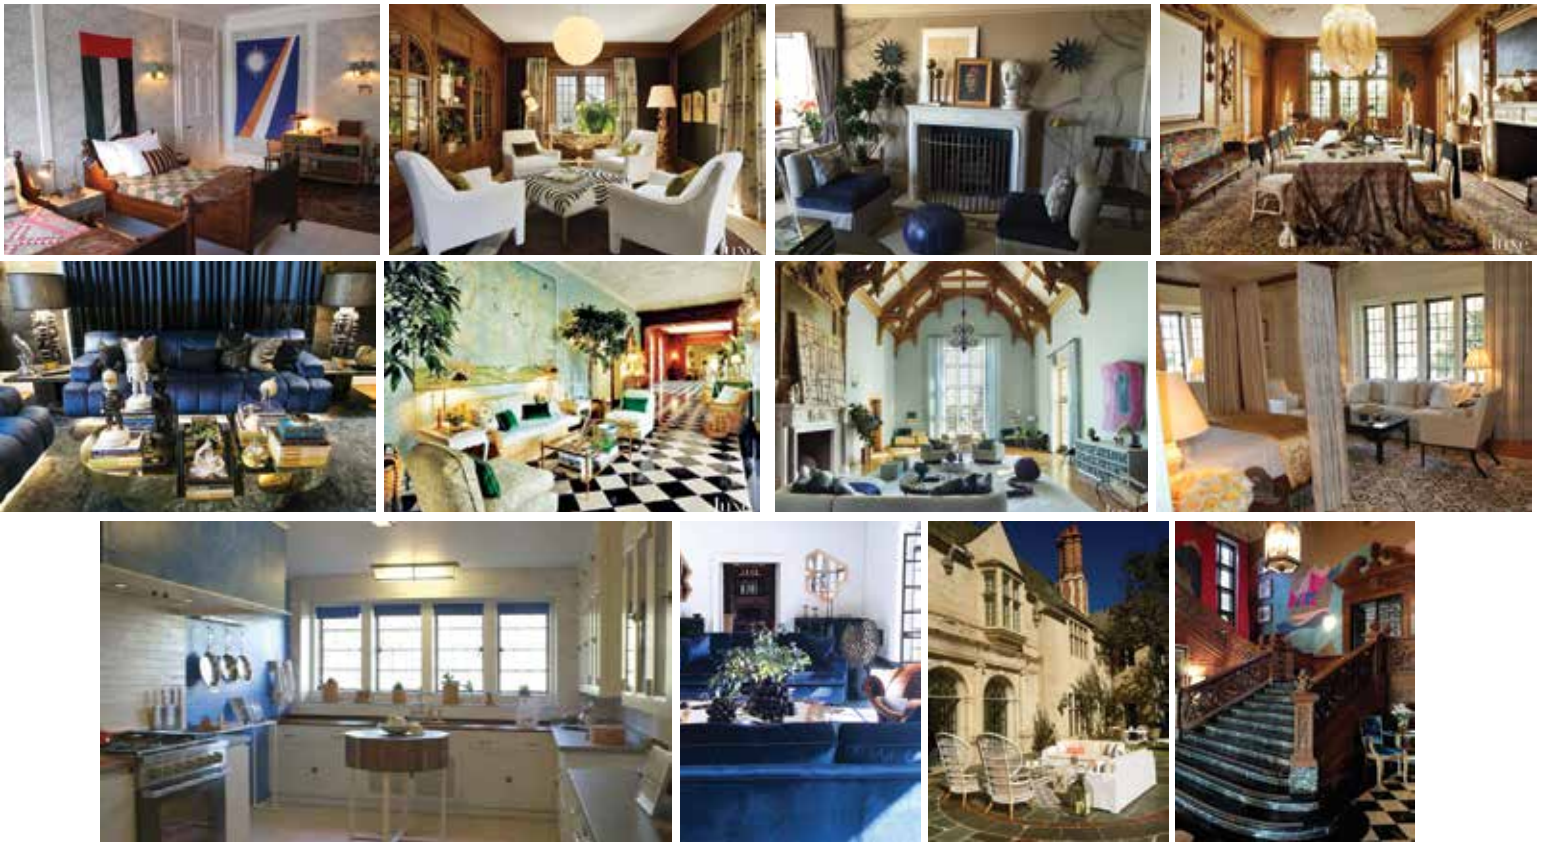

Luxe Interiors + Design Magazine, in partnership with the City of Beverly Hills and the Friends of Greystone, teamed up with twenty-three of the most sought-after world renowned interior designers who temporarily transformed the historic Doheny Greystone Estate in Beverly Hills into the magazine's second national designer show house, Maison de Luxe.

"We were delighted to bring this eclectic and supremely talented group of premier interior designers together to reimagine this historical Beverly Hills estate and showcase their respective creations to the public," said Editor in Chief Pamela Jaccarino. "Each designer has unveiled a unique representation of how the Doheny Family might live today, whether it be through their usage of mixed materials, combination of colors, textures, art and sensory experiences."

"We were honored to partner with Luxe Magazine and excited to work with them once again after having done a very successful design show house together in 2011," said Cindy Brynan, Event Supervisor. "Their selection of internationally and nationally acclaimed designers is exceptional. We are inspired by the imaginative and graceful way the designers brought a contemporary element to the traditional style of this beautiful, historic Mansion."

"From the moment you walk through the front doors of the historic Doheny Greystone Mansion you are taken back to a period of time known as the gilded age of architecture," said Susan Rosen, President of the Friends of Greystone Board of Directors.

On behalf of the City of Beverly Hills and the Friends of Greystone we thank the Maison de Luxe interior designers for their exquisite design and support of the Luxe Magazine Design Show House at historic Doheny Greystone Mansion. We are very grateful that Luxe Magazine had selected Doheny Greystone Mansion for last year's celebration of Interiors and Design. As a result of your participation and the success of the event, the funds raised by the Friends of Greystone from the Preview Cocktail Party ticket sales, memberships, gift shop sales and their silent auction will support many future restoration projects in the Mansion. We thank you for your dedication, time, efforts and support of the Doheny Greystone Mansion!

The City of Beverly Hills and the Friends of Greystone are extremely appreciative and would like to thank everyone that has been instrumental in presenting the 2015 Maison de Luxe Design Show House.

We graciously thank LUXE INTERIORS + DESIGN for selecting Greystone Mansion once again for their 10th Anniversary Celebration. This event would not be possible without the support of the Interior Designers selected by LUXE MAGAZINE for this year's Show House. They have gone above and beyond to create exquisite designs for you to enjoy as you tour historic Doheny Greystone Mansion.

The event is reliant on volunteers and the members of the Friends of Greystone that supplement the City of Beverly Hills staff for your aesthetic enjoyment and an opportunity to view the Mansion fully dressed. We thank our incredible sponsors and patrons who donate their time, money and products for our guest's pleasure!

Thank you for attending this event as your support is integral to the Friends of Greystone and the City of Beverly Hills' efforts in restoring Doheny Greystone Mansion to its original glory!
