Ninety-eight years ago Mr. and Mrs. Edward Laurence Doheny, Jr., along with their five children, moved into Greystone Mansion. The home was designed by American architect Gordon Kaufmann and the landscape was beautifully designed by American landscape architect Paul Thiene. Listed on the National Registry of Historic Places, and referred to as the Hearst Castle of Southern California, the Greystone Estate has been owned by the City of Beverly Hills since 1965. Cultural and educational activities, weddings, private events, and photo shoots for movies, television and commercials are held on the estate throughout the year.

We welcome your help in our mission to restore and preserve the Greystone Estate, the City of Beverly Hills Historic Landmark #4, as we celebrate its 98th anniversary as one of the few remaining properties still in existence that represents the historic period known as the Gilded Age of Architecture. There is no better time than now to invest in an important part of Southern California history. Imagine what the next ninety-eight years can bring with the support of your membership with the Friends of Greystone.
